

CALL LANGUAGE FOR NEW FY11 FACULTY SEARCH

Rhetorical studies. The department of communication at Georgia State University in Atlanta invites applicants for an anticipated tenure-track assistant professor position in rhetorical studies to begin in August 2010 pending budgetary approval. Candidates should have research programs underway in rhetorical criticism and/or theory, potentially connected to rhetoric and philosophy, social movement studies, discourse theory, public address, or other areas of rhetorical scholarship with contemporary social significance. Candidates should have the ability to teach in the Department's undergraduate programs and also to contribute to work done in the M.A. and doctoral Public Communication programs. Ph.D. required. Applications should include a letter of application and CV, transcripts, examples of scholarly writing, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. An offer of employment will be conditional upon background verification. A review of applications will begin November 20, 2009. Georgia State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Women, minorities, and candidates from other traditionally under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Address applications to Dr. Michael Bruner, Search Chair, Department of Communication, Georgia State University, 663 One Park Place South, Atlanta, GA 30302-4000.